NOON REPORTS.

Republican Gathering.

NEW YORK, August 24.—At an early hour this morning groups of Republican politicians were discussing the situation in the State Committee room. Among the first on hand were Senator W. H. Robertson and General Arthur. When asked as to the probable action of the State Committee Senator Robertson said: "We have been called together to decide about holding the State Convention. I am opposed to it as I deem it unnecessary, but the committee may decide otherwise. We also meet to discuss the situation in this State and compare notes."

Shortly before noon the Republican State Committee went into session in the gentlemen's parlor at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. The meeting was called to order by Gen. Chester A. Arthur.

Dr. P. C. Van Wyck, who nominated General Arthur, in caucus at Chicago, was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Michael W. Barnes, in the Fifth District.

At 12:30 o'clock a recess of ten minutes was taken, to enable the committee to prepare resolutions in relation to holding the Convention. All the members of the committee, with the exception of three or four, are strongly opposed to holding a Convention. A candidate for Chief Justice will probably be nominated at once.

On reassembling the committee adopted the following resolution:

"WHEREAS, The general sense of the Republican party is opposed to a State Convention for reasons, among others, that the time occupied in the selection of delegates to a State Convention would disturb and retard the work of the campaign already auspiciously begun, and that the character of Chief Justice Folger dictates his nomination for the high place he now occupies, and no other name would be so acceptable to the Republican party; therefore

Resolved, That in compliance with the sentiment of the Republican party, the State Committee places in nomination for Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals C. J. Folger, of Ontario.

The Committee adjourned to a call of the chair.

A Slight Skirmish.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 24.—Special advices have been received at Tucson which state that Reyes, with his band left Souara on Thursday, and while marching toward Tubutania was attacked by the Federal troops. It is asserted that Reyes's followers were killed and the rest routed. Last Saturday the same party had a fight with the Federal troops at Altar, and were routed, and were pursued into Arizona. They also had a fight at Alsoa's Flat, and four rebels were killed. They were pursued to Wilburn's Ranche, two miles from Arivacca, where they took refuge. The government troops surrounded the house, and demanded the surrender of the rebels, but the employees on the ranche refused to give them up. The government troops returned to the border for instructions, saying they would return. In the meantime word had been sent to Arcacca, and Deputy Sheriff Elliott, with thirty citizens, went to Wilbur and took the rebels, (eleven in number) prisoners. Reyes was seen, accompanied by five men, coming to Tucson. United States Marshal Evans, with a posse of citizens, is now out, to aid the Mexican authorities. It is believed the whole band will be captured.

Mysterious Disappearance.

NEW YORK, August 24.—The police are making search for John M. Benson, a young hat merchant of Montgomery, Alabama. He arrived here on the 16th inst., to purchase a stock, and his singular conduct attracted much attention. He appeared to be out of his mind at times, cried at the death of a favorite sister being the cause assigned. He went with some friends to Coney Island Sunday, and suddenly disappeared. A sister of the missing man arrived from Montgomery last night, and has prompted a vigorous search, which thus far has proved unsuccessful.

Eastern Affairs.

LONDON, August 24.—A Gulistan dispatch says: "Cavalry scouts report that Ayoob Khan has moved out with his Heratos on the Khelati Ghilzai road to oppose Gen. Roberts. Natives report that a detachment of cavalry from Candahar garrison out foraging were attacked by Ayoob Khan's cavalry, but the latter were repulsed.

Egyptian Cotton Prospects.

LONDON, August 24.—A dispatch from Cairo says it is believed that the Egyptian cotton crop will be half million cantons (22,500,000 pounds) less than that of 1879, and it will be about fifteen days late.

Congressional Nomination.

DECATUR, ALA., August 24.—General Joseph E. Wheeler was nominated yesterday for Congress by the Democratic Convention of the eighth district.

Racing.

SARATOGA, August 24.—The weather is warm, the attendance fair, and the track is in good condition. First race, free handicap, one mile; Gabriel won, Scotilla second, Florence B. third. Time 1:44.

Victoria Victorious.

GALVESTON, August 24.—Parties from the West report that Victoria's band of Indians whipped Grierson instead of being whipped, and that they are now in Mexico.

NIGHT REPORTS.

The Code.

RICHMOND, VA., August 24.—For several days past vague rumors have prevailed here that a correspondence was going on between two well known citizens which might culminate in a hostile meeting, but last evening it was reported that the correspondence had terminated in an amicable adjustment of the difficulty between the parties. This morning, however, the affair was reported to have assumed a different aspect. Upon the strength of this report warrants were issued for the arrest of the alleged principals, Dr. Geo. Ben Johnston, son of U. S. Senator Johnston and nephew of Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, and Capt. John S. Wise, son of the late Henry A. Wise, on a charge of being about to engage in a breach of the peace. Dr. Johnston was arrested at 2 o'clock this morning and taken before a magistrate and bailed in the sum of $2,000 for his appearance at the Police Court to-morrow. Capt. Wise has not yet been arrested.

New York Democrats.

NEW YORK, August 24.—An evening paper has the following: Mr. Fowler, Chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee, said to-day that General Lester B. Faulkner had issued a call for a meeting of the State Committee at the St. James Hotel next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Notices were issued in time to reach every member of the Committee to-day. At this meeting two of the main questions to be disposed of will be the calling of the State Convention for the nomination of a candidate for Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals, and the appointment of an Advisory Committee from the State at Large, to assist the Executive Committee in the conduct of the campaign.

Eastern Affairs.

LONDON, August 24.—An official dispatch dated Candahar, August 21st, says: The sortie of the 7th inst., against a village on the east face of the city, has secured us from further molestation on that side, but our loss was heavy. The enemy throw shells into the city occasionally and keep up a fire against the ramparts with sharpshooters, but do little harm.

A Reuter's Simla dispatch states that in the sortie from Candahar Brigadier-General Brooke, Colonel Newport, Major French, Captain Cruikshank and three Lieutenants were killed, three officers were severely wounded, two slightly and one hundred and eighty men killed.

Death of Gen. Myer.

BUFFALO, N. Y., August 24.—Gen. Albert J. Myer, chief signal officer of the United States army, died at the Palace Hotel, in this city, at an early hour this morning.

WASHINGTON, August 24.—A general order with reference to the death of Brigadier-General Albert J. Myer, chief signal officer of the army, will be issued from the War Department to-morrow.

Gen. Thos. H. Ruger is prominently mentioned in connection with the vacancy caused by Gen. Myer's death.

The Greek Frontier Question.

CONSTANTINOPLE, August 24.—Several ambassadors have received instructions from their respective governments in reference to their reply to the Porte in regard to the Greek frontier question. The powers decline the proposal of the Porte to open direct negotiations with the ambassadors at Constantinople. As soon as all the ambassadors shall have been instructed, they will meet to make arrangements for communicating to the Porte the decision of the powers.

Knights of Pythias in Council.

ST. LOUIS, August 24.—Several more divisions and lodges of Knights of Pythias arrived this morning and were escorted to their quarters by the local lodges. The Supreme Lodge of the World was escorted to Odd Fellows Hall at half past nine o'clock this morning. After being received by the Grand Lodge of the State with formal and imposing ceremonies usual on such occasions the Supreme Lodge went into regular session.

Congressional Nomination.

WILMINGTON, DEL., August 24.—The Democratic State Convention met here today to nominate a representative to Congress and Electors for the State ticket. There was a full delegation from each of the three counties. The Convention assembled at 1 o'clock, p. m., and nominated Col. E. L. Martin for Congress by acclamation, and chose an Electoral ticket.

First Bale of Cotton.

NEW YORK, August 24.—The first bale of the new crop of North Carolina cotton was sold here to-day by auction at 13 cents per pound. Its grade was strict low middling to middling, and it is about ten days earlier than the first bale of last year from North Carolina.

NO MISTAKE!

Raleigh, Friday, September 3d.

THE W. C. COUP

Newly United Monster Shows!!

By every human being declared to be the biggest amusement enterprises on the face of our immense Earth!

Entrancing the eye, intoxicating the senses, enchanting the intellect, bewildering the brain, delighting the mind, enrapturing the whole system and fairly mesmerizing the very soul of man with serene ecstacy!

Eleven Stupendous Exhibitions!

Each one of which, when alone, was visited by twenty thousand enthusiastic men, women and children in all the great cities of our common country.

READ THE TITLES OF MY BIG SHOWS:

JAMES MELVILLE'S AUSTRALIAN CIRCUS!

WOOD'S FAMOUS NEW YORK MUSEUM!

COLVIN'S IMMENSE MENAGERIE!

STONE'S ORIGINAL INDIAN WARRIORS!

FRYER'S RENOWNED TRAINED DOGS!

THE NEW YORK AQUARIUM!

THE DYNAMO-ELECTRIC LIGHT SHOW!

RICHELL'S MAMMOTH FLYING MACHINE!

ROYAL JAPANESE CIRCUS!

And to top all, to astonish; and bewilder, petrify and paralyze every individual inhabitant with downright delight and wonder,

THE UNEQUALLED BRONCHO HORSES!

The identical golden born animals that performed in New York, Chicago, Boston, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Washington and Baltimore for consecutive weeks before thirty thousand people each day! The most eloquent pen would utterly fail to even convey an idea of the acts these horses perform; of their grand military drill, see-sawing on a single plank, walking on stilts, finding objects hidden in the ground, rolling barrels up and down an inclined plane, jumping through blazing fire hoops, and executing the most intricate and difficult manœuvres with the ease, intelligence and precision of human beings. NETTLE, the champion leaping horse of the world, who clears a five-foot gate and six horses with the ease of a canary, is alone worth $5,000. But you must see to believe, of course.

Tens of thousands of glittering novelties never before travelled, but now coming to your town on and to be exhibited after the most attractive manner, with every accompaniment of splendor, under the

Three Trains of my Own Railroad Cars!

The Largest Canvass on Earth!

Myriads of rare, curious and wonderful living creatures of the ocean's depths and the forest's unreached latitudes, in never-ending variety, intensified in their extent by the rays of

HEAVEN'S IMMORTAL LIGHTNING!

Since the world was created, since the thought of man took form, since humanity became something from nothing, since the earliest recorded epoch, no such discovery has been chronicled as

THE GRAND ELECTRIC LIGHT!

You have all read or heard of it! It turns the densest blackest night into sun-light! It melts steel without heat! IT TURNS THE BLACK MAN INTO WHITE! It booms with a tremendous power all over creation! It burns brightly under water, and it gives the eternal hues of Paradise to every possible object, alive or inanimate, within a radius of three miles, bringing to the dreams of the drowsy an eternal and balmy sense of everlasting happiness.

But hark! another and even an equal novelty, ever born in captivity! A tiny, precious, winsome little atom of sea foam! A precious, trifling ocean infant, with luscious black eyes and shiny coat of fur! The baby of babies, over which ladies and children are driven into ecstacies! A sea-lion of twenty-seven pounds, and only three weeks old! See it! Fondle it! Tease it! Watch it nurse! See it play! Note its ponderous mother's affection for it! A wonder! A miracle! for not in the annals of Natural History was ever such another event recorded!

THE ONLY BABY SEA LION

THE MONSTER DEVIL FISH!

over fifty feet long, captured off New Foundland. This one feature raised a furor of excitement in New York City, and crowded the Aquarium building for forty weeks, with the finest class of people.

It is an utter impossibility to enumerate one-half of my glorious attractions here, but you will see them all on Friday, September 3d---Sure Pop!

Tell all your country friends to come in early and see what they will never see again,

THE GRAND FREE STREET PARADE!

with all the Indian warriors in war paint, the Japanese family, Knights in armor, Ladies fair, open dens of ferocious animals, Fire Kings, and a thousand other features.

CITIZENSHIP.

When PAUL and SILAS had been cruelly maltreated at Philippi, the former announced to the officers that they were Roman citizens. Philippi was far from the capital; at that time it was a border town on the extreme frontier of the Roman Empire. The Prætors were, in the absence of the Consuls, vested with supreme power. But powerful as the Prætors were and far as Philippi was from Rome, the violation of the privileges of a Roman citizen filled them with apprehension. They hastened immediately to the prisoners, became suppliants of those whom they had persecuted, and besought them to depart out of that city.

At Jerusalem, when the Jews made an outcery and an uncontrollable uproar arose against ST. PAUL, as proposing to make the uncircumcised heathen equal to the sons of ABRAHAM; CLAUDIUS LYSIAS, the Roman commander, ignorantly supposing him guilty of some great crime, ordered him to the barracks and to be questioned by torture to elicit confession of his guilt. The Apostle did but mention to the torturer that he was a Roman citizen, and in a few moments the commander himself, astonished and alarmed, was there to arrest proceedings.

During the late war between the States, Messrs. MASON and SLIDELL were taken from the deck of a British packet by a Federal cruiser. They were Americans, but they were on a British deck and covered by the British flag, and their rights were as promptly and sternly enforced as if they had been citizens of England.

Instances might be multiplied of the sacred regard for citizenship from the history of many centuries. These will suffice, and these will be recalled fully to the recollection of readers by the mere mention of them. And now let us see what is the worth of North Carolina citizenship in the eyes of Judge BUXTON and other North Carolina Radical Judges.

When KIRK and his "rude" soldiery broke into Caswell, they laid lawless hands upon many of the most eminent citizens in that county or in the State. So far as we know or have heard, there was not one of those subjected to unlawful violence who was not above suspicion even of evil of any kind. Among them was JOHN KERR, then nearing the close of a long life distinguished by brilliant talents, marked by conspicuous public services, and adding to other claims to consideration that of having been from early manhood an active, useful, zealous member of the Baptist Church. There was WILLIAM B. ROWE, long a presiding magistrate of the County Court, foremost in setting an example of obedience to law as he was ever zealous in enforcing it. For a quarter of a century he had held high official position in the Methodist Church. There was Dr. N. M. ROAN, whose eminence as a citizen had been recognized by his election as one of the Council of State; whose professional position for half a life-time had been of the highest in the State; and who for full as long a space had been an Elder in the Presbyterian Church. To these men, and such as these, Judge BUXTON and his brother Radical judges denied the commonest privilege of our law, the writ of habeas corpus, when their highest rights had been invaded with every circumstance of injury.

It is to be remembered that this privilege was not something which these Judges might grant or withhold. It was due to each applicant of common right. The statute is express. Judge BUXTON and his associates had sworn when they took the oath of office to grant this writ to all who were entitled to it. Why was it not done? The law was clear, the oath positive, the worthiness of the applicants attested by blameless lives, and endorsed by their standing in three of our most numerous religious denominations.

These three particular cases cited may not have been before Judge BUXTON, probably were not. They would have been, had he done his duty, or had he indicated any inclination to its performance. We have cited the cases of these excellent gentlemen for the purpose of showing the spirit of Radicalism; to show that neither public service, character, nor religion had in its eyes any claim to the most ordinary right in law. But the character of the applicant is wholly immaterial. Were he the worst man in North Carolina, and accused of the grossest felony, he is entitled to the writ. Why then was it not granted to those who applied? The only answer is to be found in that contempt of personal rights which is characteristic of Radicalism. But be that as it may, the fact is plain that for the great questions of personal liberty, Judge BUXTON has no regard. The fact is plain, that in North Carolina under laws as stringent as they can be made, with Judges bound by the most solemn oaths, the most sacred rights of citizenship were, in the persons of her own sons, treated with a contemptuous disregard that was unknown eighteen hundred years ago on the uttermost frontiers of the Roman Empire, and which England would not tolerate even in the persons of foreigners temporarily protected by her flag.

Is citizenship, so sacred everywhere else, to be trodden under foot in North Carolina at the pleasure of every official? That is the issue which is presented when Judge BUXTON, one of the men by whom its rights were set at naught, presents himself as a candidate for the highest office. The very fact that he is a candidate for Governor of North Carolina is proclamation to the people that he regards them so besotted in ignorance of their rights as to be incapable of estimating the consequences of their violation.

SOUTHERN COTTON MILLS.

The Manufacturer and Industrial Gazette, of Springfield, Massachusetts, gives some substantial reasons why the Southern cotton factories, though small and rather poorly equipped, are able to earn a larger per centage of profits than the immense mills of the North. They have the advantage of better location, and when they have secured new and improved machinery, will do an unrivaled business. They can save freight, buy cheaper, and hire cheaper labor. They save the buyer's commission, warehouse delivery and cartage, sampling, classing, pressing, shipping, discount on bills, loss of weight in sampling for mixed packages, fire insurance before shipping, marine risks, and freight and cartage to interior towns, which amounts in all to some $7.00 per bale. The Northern mills also lose from receiving cotton poorly ginned, containing a good deal of leaf and sand, which is computed at 6 per cent. of the entire cotton crop. The difference between the cost of a bale sent to Fall River, Mass., and a bale sent to Columbus, Ga., is $8.06, the former costing $51.71 and the latter $43.65. This makes a tax of 18 per cent. which Fall River pays in competing with Columbus. It is estimated that if the planters could manufacture their cotton near home they would save $50,000,000 in transportation. A prominent manufacturer in Mississippi says that that State can manufacture cotton at a cost of from 15 to 20 per cent. cheaper than it can be made in New England. In Georgia new mills are exempt from taxation for ten years, and this exemption is extending into other States. The water power of the manufacturing sections of the South is very fine, and the hours of labor are longer in the course of a year, while the saving of heat and light is considerable. As yet the South manufactures only coarser goods, yarns, ducks, unbleached muslins, sheetings, shirtings, osnaburgs, jeans, &c., but the time is not distant when it will come to make prints also, cambrics, laces, and all the finer qualities of staple goods.

THE NOMINATION of Colonel R. T. BENNETT by the Lumberton Convention will give general and very great satisfaction. If he accepts the nomination, the Governor will at once issue a commission to Col. BENNETT, who will ride the Eighth Circuit, holding his first court in Catawba county, on September 6th.

LOUISVILLE, KY., was dissatisfied with its census returns and a recount was demanded. The government employed a first-class man to make a recount of one of the most populous wards, and he could only make out 143 more people than the enumerator found in mid-summer. So that settles the matter, and Louisville must be satisfied with the work of the enumerators. Many people think that a recount would make a great change in this city.

THE LOOK of things in Indiana is cheerful. The Radical papers have been talking very confidently of carrying the State, but their tone has changed. They now say that Mr. ENGLISH has gone to work to carry the State, and that he is a worker like TILDEN, and that he is putting money and a great deal of it where it will do the most good; that is to say, into the pockets of Radicals whose votes are for sale We judge from the tone of the Times that he has already bought enough of them to secure the electoral vote of the State.

WE LIKE to see a man do what he does with his whole heart, and even when he is doing a heartless thing, do that with the whole force of the organ which supplies the place of a heart. We like this quality of earnestness so much that we have acquired a sort of wondering respect, or respectful wonder, for the New York Tribune's method of running a campaign. A highway robber is indeed much more respectable than a sneak-thief, and a bold liar always commands a certain sort of respect, while the timid fibber gets nothing but contempt. Of the Tribune's capacity in this regard no one will ever speak with contempt who has learned that in its issue of the 23d inst. it has proved that the Republican party had nothing to do with creating the indebtedness of the eleven Southern States! It was all made by the Democrats, except a pitiful little four million dollars, which Republicans borrowed when the country was too poor to pay taxes just after the war!

THOMAS HUGHES, a member of the British Parliament, but better known as the author of TOM BROWN'S School-days at Rugby, has come to this country upon a mission interesting in two respects: first, as showing an organized movement for the migration to this country of the tenant-farmers of England who suffer under the present system of land tenure, and second as indicating a diversion of the current of immigration from the west and northwest to the south or southwest. The HUGHES colony or association is organized, it is said, with a capital of $750,000 and has purchased about 400,000 acres on the Cumberland plateau in East Tennessee. These lands, which are described as extraordinary in their resources of soil, timber, minerals, water supply and natural beauty, have heretofore been inaccessible, but now are reached by the Cincinnati Southern Railroad. Since March last, a hotel has been built, a town laid out, saw-mills and brick kilns erected, roads made, and a good start effected generally in the establishment of the colony. It is proposed to secure a high moral and Christian character for the community, but at the same time to provide fully for healthful recreations. To this end there will be a cricket ground, and English garden and several public parks;—in short, the plan is to make it a model town of the future. Whether it will succeed better than some other colony schemes that have proved abortive in this country is a question. It has at any rate, so the papers say, and Mr. Hughes' connection with it indicates, good backing, and the colonists are not visionary communists, but robust, substantial men, quite well adapted to make the experiment a success.

THE CAMPAIGN.

Governor Jarvis in Rockingham.

SPEARS, THE INTERNAL REVENUER, SPEAKS.

And the Spear is Broken by Steele.

[Correspondence of THE RALEIGH NEWS.]

ROCKINGHAM, August 23, 1880.

This has been another great day for Democracy. The Governor and, as Spears called them, his able body guard, arrived in this place from Wadesboro at 1.30 o'clock this morning via the Carolina Central Railway.

We were taken entirely by surprise when the cars stopped at the depot to find at that late hour had assembled to welcome Gov. Jarvis to old Rockingham, and amidst the sweet strains of music by the brass band of Rockingham, the booming of cannon and cheers of the people, he and your correspondent were escorted to the private residence of James T. Le Grand, Esq., who, with his accomplished lady, entertained us in princely style.

THE SPEAKING, &C.

In front of Everett & Co's store, where the street was beautifully shaded, a temporary stand was erected, and there, at one o'clock,

OVER TWO THOUSAND PEOPLE

had assembled to hear the discussion. Oscar J. Spears, Esq., revenue collector, challenged the Governor for a division of time. The Governor asked him how much time he wanted. He said, an hour. Gov. Jarvis told him that he would lead off in a speech of such length as his throat would permit, then he, Spears, could follow in a speech of one hour, after which the discussion would be closed by himself or Col. W. L. Steele. To this Spears assented.

GOVERNOR JARVIS

was introduced by J. T. LeGrand, in a beautiful and pointed speech. The Governor lead off, but his throat becoming so sore, he only spoke one hour. His speech was listened to attentively and made a fine impression. His hits on O. J. S., whom he dubbed the were like words of fire that burned to the quick, and made the said O. J. S. squirm like a worm on a hot gridiron.

OSCAR J. SPEARS,

the same who is a revenue officer and who is spoiling to be the Radical nominee from this Senatorial District, thinking this a good opportunity to gain some notoriety, foolishly and unwisely consented to be sandwiched between Gov. Jarvis and Col. Steele. This showed his want of sense or judgment. But he spoke his speak, or, to use his own language, "blundered through his speech." The negroes said they never heard anything like it, and I fully agree with them, for, for cool, barefaced effrontery and insolence, it has no equal; if ignorance is bliss, then Oscar is in possession of more of that ingredient than any other man in Richmond county. He, without any provocation, went out of his way to speak of the correspondents in a manner entirely uncalled for. I suppose it was because he suspected we would show him up in his true light. By the way, doesn't the "Civil Service Reform" apply to him; or does he, like General Sickles when, on one occasion, he was smoking in a ladies' car on a railroad in North Carolina, the conductor politely told him it was against the rules, said: "Consider the rules suspended until I get through smoking." Probably Mr. Spears suspends the operations of C. S. R. in his case, until the present campaign is over.

COLONEL WALTER L. STEELE

took up the young man and his party and for one hour and a half he dealt blow after blow upon them, and I heard several say that if he (O. J. S.) did not have the hide of a rhinoceros Col. Steele's rebuke would cure him of his insolence. For eloquent sarcasm Col. Steele beats them all. Governor Jarvis said, after he heard Jordan at Troy, if he wanted a man to do anything where ignorance and insolence were requisite he would take Jordan, but after hearing Spears he had changed his mind. Col. Steele's speech was a masterly effort and made a fine impression. There was a greater display of Radicalism here to-day than we have met with on the campaign. But with all this it was a grand old day for the Democracy, and the promise for Richmond to her sister counties is, she will redeem herself in November next and send up a majority for Hancock Jarvis and Dowd.

The Governor and party were handsomely entertained at the residence of Col. W. L. Steele.

The band escorted us from our quarters to the depot. To them and the citizens of Rockingham who showed us so much attention we make our humble bow.

R. A. LEIGH.

NEW YORK CHARACTERS.

The Pawnbrokers.

At this time of the year the pawnbroker is a very handy relative. You are absolutely nothing without money, and it is he who is only too willing to turn, as Mr. Midas used to do, any of your temporal possessions into gold. Not so willing as he used to be. The loaning trade hasn't made many advances lately. People have become so thoroughly broke that the per centage of chance of their ever turning up to redeem pledged articles has steadily decreased and the capitalist of has not been slow to appreciate the situation. His principal trade is his interest, and so philanthropic is the pawnbroker, despite the horrid things that have been said of him, that he much prefers to have prosperity fall upon you, so as to enable you to take out whatsoever you may have intrusted to his care. Still, the revival of trade has had its effect in making the business brisk.

Originally the pawnbrokers came from Italy, and that accounts for there being so many in Mulberry street, and all through the Italian quarter. The precise significance of the three ball game they play with you has never been explained. It is popularly considered as an exemplification of the fact that it is two to one that the capitalist will get the best of you. I cannot vouch for this. There are many of the Hebrew children making money as pawnbrokers. In each instance the method of conducting business is precisely the same. Say the article is a watch, upon which you want a loan of $15. The man behind the counter will begin to shake his head before you get in the door at all. That means he is up to your tricks, and is well aware that you intend to endeavor to gouge him in some way. When you take the watch out of your pocket,

THE PAWNBROKER GROANS.

This suspicious attitude of his is contagious, and you really begin to feel you are a thief. He picks up the watch deprecatingly, groaning more and more, and really becoming so miserable that sympathy is excited for him. The rolling of his eyes and the uplifted hands indicate internal pains. But it isn't anything of the kind. It is a pantomimic expression of an affection of the money chest.

"Oh! Mein Gott in Himmel, vot you vant on this vatch?"

"Fifteen dollars."

"Moses! Moses! Koomin sie hier—quick, Moses. He vants fifteen dollars!"

Moses falls down in a fit and is dragged into the next room. He has been sickly since his birth and any sudden shock upsets him.

"I tell you vat it is," the pawnbroker finally remarks, "I give you one dollar seventy-five." And he groans all the time he makes out the ticket. This is the regular style with one kind of pawnbrokers. Of course they vary.

There are a great many English and Irish in the business, and a few Yankees. It is a vocation, however, which seems to particularly suit the German-Jew character. They have the penetrating glance which tells them at once how much they would be warranted in advancing up on a certain article. When they have settled this in their mind they offer one-half, and have the other as a margin to fight over.

The shoddy pawnbrokers—receivers of stolen property—are the ones who make money. Being constantly aware of the fact that they are liable to be visited by the police at any moment, they give their villainous customers but little. A set of silver that may have cost a murder, diamonds gotten at night in residences—all such goods are eagerly taken, but the burglar gets a beggarly amount. When the transaction is accomplished, the gold ornaments are melted down, and all dangerous goods are sent off for distant negotiation by agents.

There is no question about the cheek of the pawnbroker. He will offer you the price of a watermelon for a hundred dollar pin. When you get ahead of a pawnbroker you want to put the date in red chalk on a fence, and then ask some one to help you celebrate the glorious event.

The laws regulating pawnbrokers differ in different localities. In New York you have a year in which to redeem or renew, but in Philadelphia, for instance, it is a question of four months. It was ignorance of this fact which made it possible for me, some time ago, to lose a watch which had been presented to me by the gentlemen of the office in which I had been temporarily engaged, the gift expressing either their joy or sorrow (I never could determine which), at my leaving. It was beautifully inscribed with my name, etc., and so elegant altogether that I deemed it too valuable to carry during a season in which pickpockets were flourishing alarmingly, so I temporarily intrusted it to the guardianship of a gentleman, thinking I had a year to contemplate it in a position of absolute security. It was a good "going" watch and was "gone" at the end of four months.

GASTON POLITICS:—

Cherryville, N. C., August 23, 1880.—Gaston held her Convention Saturday, 21st inst. It met and organized in the Court House under a Hancock and Jarvis flag, fluttering in a pure Southern breeze ninety feet above old mother earth, and great enthusiasm prevailed.

The first thing in the order of business, was to recommend a candidate for Senator for the district composed of Cleveland and Gaston counties, which resulted in the recommendation of James M. Reid, Esq., of Gaston, subject to the action of the Joint Convention of the two counties to be held at King's Mountain on the 1st day of September next. Mr. Reid is a good man and a true Democrat. It's thought he will not accept.

Next in order was the nomination of a candidate for the lower House, which resulted in the nomination of Col. Wm. G. Morris, a conscientious good man and a true Democrat.

Next the Sheriff, which resulted in the nomination of the present Sheriff, Robt A. White, for a third term, a good man, a true Democrat and has made us a good Sheriff. Next was the Register of Deeds, and choice was made of the present Register John M. Rhodes.

A strong ticket and sure to win. It is uncertain yet who will be the successful candidate for the Senatorial honors.

Franklin County News.

[Correspondence of THE RALEIGH NEWS.]

LOUISBURG, N. C., August 24, 1880.

EDITOR NEWS:—The Hancock, Jarvis & Cox Club has been fully organized in this township, with Geo. S. Baker as President; G. G. Gill, Esq., Vice-President and J. A. Thomas, Secretary. The Club met last night and was addressed by Hon. J. J. Davis and B. B. Massenberg, Esq.

On Saturday the 4th of September there will be a public meeting here in the interest of the Democratic candidates. A number of prominent speakers are expected.

The Rads had it all their own way here on last Friday, Buxton, Bledsoe, Thorn, Williamson. Col. Green was on hand, but was REFUSED A DIVISION OF TIME.

There was not a large crowd and little or no enthusiasm. Buxton created none; and Bledsoe by his wild assertions and a few sorry anecdotes, made the negroes laugh. Thorn followed and when he finished there were only a very few listeners, so few that John did not attempt to speak. They have not yet made a county ticket.

On the same day the Senatorial Convention for this District met at Nashville, and was re-nominated. All are pleased at this. This county is getting well organized for the coming campaign and will contest every inch of ground with the opposition. This, as you know, is a close county, and nothing but the most thorough and perfect organization will defeat the Radicals.

The recent freshets caused great loss to our farmers who had their crops on low grounds. Various estimates have been made as to the loss. Some say 500 barrels of corn and some say 1,000—it is hard to get at the real loss, though it is very heavy.

Clinton Lodge, No. 124, A. F. and A. M., held a meeting under dispensation, on Saturday night, for the purpose of electing and installing officers for the present Masonic year. The following were elected: Geo. S. Baker, W. M.; F. N. Egerton, S. W.; Blair Burwell, J. W.; P. B. Clifton, T.; Thos. White, Sec.; W. B. Williamson, S. D.; T. J. Stokes, J. D.; J. A. Stone, Tyler.

Henderson and Joe Alston, two colored men who were convicted and sentenced to the State prison, for larceny, at Fall term, 1876, of our court, but who made good their escape from jail, were last night caught by officer Spruill, in Freeman township, and to-day were sent on to Raleigh. Sentence, two years each.

Our town is being put in splendid condition by street commissioner E. L. Stegall, under direction of Mr. Thos. White, one of the members of the board. They certainly do not believe in doing things by halves, as most of their predecessors did.

New York Court Scenes.

[From the New York Herald, 23d.]

A LEARNED JUDGE.

Tall, yellow-skinned and haggard, Samuel Lyons drew nigh to the railing in the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday, his limbs trembling as though with palsy.

"Samuel," said Justice Murray, "you were found in Clark street last night very drunk, and the horse and wagon you were driving wandered about the sidewalk followed by a crowd of small boys This is a bad case."

"Ain't I going ter be heard at all in this marble hall of justice?" muttered the prisoner, gazing mournfully at his Honor. "An' ain't my wife going ter give me a bang up character fer being a Christ'n an' a lov'n husband?"

Mrs. Lyons, a stout little lady dressed in deep mourning, testified that her husband was not in the habit of drinking much, but was easily intoxicated. "We have a nice little home in Valley Park, N. J., but drink has brought a curse upon it; I walked the floor the whole blessed night and I'm nearly crazy; make him take the pledge, Judge, before he stirs from this spot and I'll bless you all my days.

Judge Murray seemed moved by the woman's earnestness. "Samuel," said he, "place your hand upon the Bible and look at me. Now, do you solemnly swear to abstain from drinking all hot rums, stone fences, egg noggs, Tom Collinses, Santa Cruz sours, gin fizzes, wines, sherry cobblers, tanglefoot, brandy smashes and Old Toms, besides all kinds of spirituous liquors?"

"I do," said Lyons, with a bright smile.

"And weiss beer," added the Judge.

"Ah-o-of course, I mean," answered the prisoner, his countenance falling as he saw his last hope gone.

And the spectators marvelled how his Honor knew the names of so many drinks.

Colored Wisdom.

[Washington Star.]

"It am obvious to me," observed one of a pair of elderly colored men who were walking up 14th street last evening, "dat de newspapers am inclined to 'tach mo' impo'tance to de 'lection dan it deserves, sah, for 'lections aint what dey was."

"How is dat, Mr. Johnson?" inquired the other.

"Well, you see, sah, dat tings am changed since befo' de war, and de important ting now am de 'nauguration."

"Allowing de conscientjousness ob dat conclusion, Mr. Johnson, an' de great consequence ob de 'nauguration in politics, de 'lection am de most impo'tant ob de two."

"Dar is whar you colored niggers fool yourselves," retorted the one addressed as Mr. Johnson, "I am de las' one to underrate de impo'tance ob any ob de elements in dis human 'conomy, but de 'lection is no account no way. Dar was Massa Tilden 'lected President, but Brudder Hayes was 'naugurated."

This proposition, which was stated with all the solemnity of a decision from the bench, had a silencing effect on the doubter, and it was fully a minute before he regained his voice, then he said gravely:

"Sho' enough, Mr. Johnson, I done fo'got all about dat. You is right, sah, de whole ting depends on de 'nauguration, and de 'lection mus' ride on de hine seat."

The man who spends too much of his time in building castles in the air is not likely to hold much real estate on the earth.

A Curious Mistake.

[From the New York Times]

Mr. Weller's fear of widows was an unconscious tribute to their powers of fascination. There is no doubt that, other things being equal, a widow is far more effective in assaults upon marriageable men than is any other variety of woman. The young and pretty widow is simply irresistible. Over a young girl she has all the advantage which a veteran has over a raw recruit. She has learned in the school of matrimony the true nature of man, and knows him from beginning to end. She knows precisely what will please him and in what places he can be most effectively wounded. When she deigns to dispute with an unmarried girl over the body of a marriageable man, the girl has no more chance than the Adversary had in his dispute with Michael.

There was a widow at a fashionable watering-place this Summer who was universally admitted to be one of the ablest of living widows. She had only to wave her fan at any given young man and he surrendered at once. It must be said in justice to her that she was a singularly magnanimous widow, and apparently had no love of sport for its own sake. The mere chase and capture of young men was so easy a task that she found it tame and uninteresting. Hence, while she exasperated her sex by her beauty and her evident powers of fascination, she rarely exerted those powers, and waited patiently for game worth capturing.

In the early part of July there came to the hotel where this dangerous widow resided a young millionaire, whom she instantly marked as her prey. The unmarried girls despairingly withdrew from the contest, and in the course of three days the widow had the young man completely at her mercy. Here for the first time she was guilty of a tactical error. In her pride of victory and her confidence in her own powers she delayed to effect the final capture of the young millionaire. She knew that any moment she could compel him to surrender, but she preferred to prolong the pleasures of the chase from day to day, and to postpone the moment when he would speak the irrevocable words that would seal his final capture. As the result proved, this was a serious error; but who could have anticipated the terrible catastrophe that overthrew her plans and snatched away her lawful prey?

One evening the widow gave a little entertainment to a few select friends in her own rooms. It was the height of the strawberry season, and she provided her guests with strawberries and cream, in addition to other dainties. Of course, the young millionaire was present, and there were also present two lady friends of the widow who hated her with great vigor, and a young man of no particular value who silently worshipped her, but lacked the courage to mention that unimportant fact. The hostess never looked more beautiful than she did on the evening in question. Her age was a constant topic of discussion among her lady acquaintances, and though the most of them asserted that she was 35 if she was a day, she certainly did not seem to be more than 25 in the eyes of the male sex. One of her chief beauties was her complexion. Women unanimously agreed that it was artificial, but they could produce no proof of the charge. Ordinarily, a complexion that is artificially whitened or colored betrays the fact to the close observer, but not a trace of any foreign substance could be detected on the fair cheeks or arms of the widow. The latter were more than once tested, apparently by accident, with black velvet, a scientific test that is usually held to be infallible. But they withstood the test triumphantly, and to the great annoyance of the ladies who had the experiment in charge. Similarly the widow's arms were tested by astute young men, suborned by envious women for the purpose, with black coat-sleeves, but this test failed as completely as the others. The men, without an exception, maintained that the widow's complexion was genuine, and the ladies, while they as stoutly maintained that it was a work of art, acknowledged that they could not imagine what preparation she used in the place of the ordinary poudre de riz.

The little entertainment in the widow's rooms was a delightful affair. The strawberries were served by the widow's maid, a young person without much experience, but of the most excellent intentions. The strawberries were served about 9 o'clock, and it was the young person's duty to offer to each guest cream and sugar. It was here that the great and irreparable mistake of the evening occurred. The maid, who was, perhaps, a little embarrassed, and may also have been near-sighted, mistook a beautifully ornamented box which stood on the widow's toilet-table, where the cream had been temporarily placed, for the sugar-bowl, and in complete unconsciousness of the horrible scandal which she was creating, offered it to the guests. The comparatively valueless young man was the first to whom the box was offered, and he liberally sprinkled his strawberries with its contents. The two lady friends of the widow recognized the character of white powder at once, and, with triumph in their eyes, calmly declined it. The young millionaire followed the example of the valueless young man, and the hostess, who did not care for strawberries, merely waived the maid aside. What the powder was is not certainly known. The young millionaire, however after his first spoonful of strawberries, rose up with a faint cry, and, exclaiming that he was poisoned, fled from the room. The two lady guests asked with great sympathy what could possibly be the matter with the sugar, and hoped that it was not bismuth; but the valueless young man, with the heroism of an early Christian martyr, continued to eat his strawberries, asserting that the sugar was all right, and that he never tasted more delicious berries. The company, however, broke up almost immediately, and in the course of half an hour every lady in the hotel and every attainable man was made aware of the fact that the widow did use a white powder for her complexion, and had nearly poisoned the millionaire by sprinkling it on his strawberries.

This teaches us that the ablest widows may be defeated by some almost unimaginable accident, and that a valueless young man may unexpectedly prove himself a true hero. Both the widow and the hero departed from the hotel the day after the calamity just mentioned, and it is generally believed that she will reward him for the noble way in which he sacrificed himself in a vain effort to maintain the reputation of her complexion.

Bathing in the Surf.

[From the Brooklyn Daily Eagle.]

"Now, my dear," said Mr. Spoopendyke, as he stepped out of his bathing house and thumped upon the door of the one occupied by Mrs. Spoopendyke, "are you ready? We must hurry into the water and out again or we won't get through in time for dinner."

Mrs. Spoopendyke emerged, bent almost double and shivering with the cold.

"Isn't it rather chilly?" she asked.

"Not at all, Mrs. Spoopendyke, not at all; the air is rather cool, but the water is warm. If you are going with me you want to move along."

As they reached the beach, Mr. Spoopendyke left his wife and boldly strode into the surf. A wave broke over him filling his eyes, nose, ears and mouth, and then he strode out.

"What're you standing there for, eh?" he demanded. "What do you take yourself for, a light-house? Did you come down here to take a bath, or are ye waiting for some ship to tie up to you? What's the matter with you, any way?"

"I'm afraid of the waves," whispered Mrs. Spoopendyke, "they're so big."

"Oh! they're too big for you, ain't they?" retorted Mr. Spoopendyke. "Wait till I get a man to saw off a little one. Better get measured for one to suit, hadn't you? It's the big waves you want, I tell you. Look here," and Mr. Spoopendyke marched boldly into the water. He turned his face toward the shore and beckoned to his wife. Another wave caught him and landed him high and dripping on the beach.

"Why didn't ye come when I called ye? What d'ye want to make me walk all the way up here after you for?" shrieked Mr. Spoopendyke. "Are ye waiting to be launched, like a ship? Can't ye walk as far as that? What are ye hoisting up the legs of your pants for! They are skirts. Now look at me. See how I go in and you follow me when I beckon to you. Watch me now."

Mr. Spoopendyke plunged in and swooped around a few minutes in safety, for the treacherous water was biding its time. Another wave caught him and rolled him over, plumped itself into his stomach, doubled him under, whirled him around and finally deposited him, howling, on the sand.

"Got most ready to get in?" he jerked out, as he climbed up himself and resumed the perpendicular. "Think I'm going to slam around here all day, like a water-spout, waiting for you? What did you come here for? Find any fun in standing there like a soda water sign? Why don't you get in the water if you are going to? Come on now."

"I'm afraid," sniveled Mrs. Spoopendyke. "If I go in I know I will be drowned."

"No you won't get drowned, either. Can't you hold on to me? What did you put on that shirt and trowsers for if you meant to get drowned? What are you doing around here? Now when I get in again, you come along or else you go home."

Mr. Spoopendyke plunged into the surf but as he came up he missed the rope. For a second or two he sprawled around and then began to yell. Mrs. Spoopendyke eyed him for a moment, and then fear for him overcame her fears for herself, and with a yell she dashed in and hauled him out by the hair.

"Dod gast the water," choked Mr. Spoopendyke, "I'm full of the measly stuff. So ye got in, didn't ye? Let go my hair will ye? Let go, I tell ye! What do you think you are, any way, a steam barber shop? Going to let go that hair some time?" But frightened out of all reason, Mrs. Spoopendyke clung still and hauled Mr. Spoopendyke to his bathing house.

"Oh! if I hadn't saved you," she sobbed.

"Oh! yes, you save me, didn't you?" sneered Mr. Spoopendyke. "All you want is four air tight compartments and twenty of thole pins to be a patent life raft. Are you going to let go of that hair?"

And as she released him they went to their separate apartments.

A Spongin' Ole Man.

The colored cook of a family in Little Rock, Ark., is greatly annoyed by "low flung pussons" of her own race who intrude upon her at meal times. A few days ago an old colored preacher dropped in upon her while she was preparing dinner. After a few introductory remarks the preacher said:

"My heart has de 'pinion dat yo' has company to-day, Matilda. I has been borin' in de cause of Him dat is above, dis mawnin', an' is faint. De spirit reckons me to dem roastin' yers, ole gal. Has yo' an extra plate?"

Tildy stopped her work and exclaimed:

"Dan'l Jackson, take yo'self away dis minute. Is dis my house? Is dis my roastin' yers? Go 'long. Can yo' look me in de face an' tole yo' ghost stories? I'se fed yo' nuff."

And Matilda, seizing the skillet, ran out Dan'l out of doors and came back talking to herself.

"I'se going to stan' dat ole critter mo'. Roastin' yers. He has got the mouth on de cawn or de coffee in dis house. I 'spects 'ligion, but if' ole Dan'l comes roun' hyar any mo', I'll give him de skillet on his ole head. Spongin' ole man.

Obituary Poetry.

IN MEMORIAM.

[Kansas City Times.]

A little peach in the orchard grew—
A little peach of emerald hue;
Warmed by the sun and wet by the dew
It grew.

One day, passing that orchard through,
That little peach dawned on the view
Of Johnnie Jones and his sister Sue—
Them two.

Up at that peach a club they threw—
Down from the stem on which it grew
Fell the little peach of emerald hue—
Mon dieu!

She took a bite and John a chew
And then the trouble began to brew—
Trouble the doctor couldn't subdue—
Too true!

Under the turf where the daisies grew
They planted John and sister Sue,
And their little souls to the angels flew—
Boo hoo!

What of the peach of the emerald hue,
Warmed by the sun and wet by the dew?
Ah, well, its mission on earth is through—Adieu!

CITY AND COUNTY NOTES:—

Not a chicken in market at noon yesterday.

And still the mercury rises. Yesterday was too hot.

Already are the farmers looking out for cotton pickers.

Croquet Club meets at Croquet Lawn this evening at 5 o'clock.

Central Hancock, Jarvis & Cox Club to-night, and don't you forget it.

See new advertisement of J. A. Bragassa, confectionery and bakery.

More good material added to the ranks of Raleigh Light Infantry last night.

Church workers of the Church of the Good Shepherd meet at the rectory to-night.

Bishop Atkinson is rapidly improving. He is at Old Sweet Springs, West Virginia.

Charlotte Democrats will erect a Hancock and English pole the latter part of this week.

The iron fronts of the new stores opposite the government building were erected yesterday.

Not a drummer's license issued nor an old bond received at the Treasury Department yesterday.

That lawn party will positively come off on Thursday night. Alex Kreth will give you the place and the hour.

Another whole day devoted to the Fowle and Vick vs. Kerchner and Boatwright case yesterday in our Superior Court.

An anxious crowd gathers in the court room awaiting the argument in the case of Fowle and Vick vs. Kerchner and Boatwright.

Taking advantage of the low rates offered from this place to Baltimore, quite a large party of our merchants left for northern cities yesterday.

Several additions were made to the membership of Hickman Lodge Good Templars last night. It seems that our young men are beginning to realize that it is best not to "look upon the wine when it is red."

The Fire Association of Philadelphia, represented by P. F. Pescud & Son, yesterday paid into the State Treasury through the Secretary of State $176.70 the 2 per cent tax on business done in this State during the past six months.

William Henry Harrison during the late drought amused himself by writing rhymes, one of which we picked up from his table yesterday. It reads thus:

The turtles clumb the tallest trees,
The catfish hid in holes;
The little fish could hardly swim,
To save their little souls;
The oily eels took to the woods,
The crawfish nearly bust;
And little stern-wheel boats that run
Kicked up an awful dust.

RIFLE SHOOTING.—Members of the Carolina Rifle Club are specially requested to be at the range at 4:30 sharp, this afternoon. It is important that every member be present punctually. F. A. OLDS.

NEW WAKE COUNTY COTTON.—Boss King of Cary township will deliver in town to-day the first bale of new cotton raised in Wake county. Cary is always ahead and Boss King is never second in the race.

WAKE COUNTY DONATION.—In the case now occupying the attention of Wake Superior Court, this county appears as donator to about $300. Twelve jurors, $1.50 per day, $18.00, $1.00 dollar a day board for the jurors, twelve in number, $10.00, which makes $30.00 per day; the case will most probably consume ten days, making Wake county's donation $300.

THEY WON'T GO.—There are in the postoffice held for short postage, improper addresses, &c., letters for Fred Jones, Kinston; Dedam Alston, Raleigh; Lenetie Arden, Charlotte; W. Carolina; two postal cards with no address; a blank book without direction; packages to W. Grissom, Geo. Hayes, Roxboro; Mrs. Jane E. Perine, Box 605 Orange, N. J.; James W. Edwards, Slater's Station, N. C. R. R., S. C.; Williamsburg county.

THE MINSTELS ARE COMING.—The advance posters of J. H. Haverly's New Orleans Minstrels have made their appearance in our midst, and were displayed in front of Tucker Hall yesterday. This company of burnt cork specialties have appeared before Raleigh audiences upon several occasions and their return will be anxiously looked for and hailed with delight. They will shortly appear.

A COINCIDENCE.—Raleigh has an abundance of peace officers, particularly executive officers. Strange as it may appear, nine-tenths of the petty trials, such as frays, assaults, quarrels in which harsh words constitute the essence of offence, come up from East Raleigh; still, right in the midst there live two or three of these officers. True, the majority of the population in that locality are negroes, who readily fly to court for small matters. Still there is Oberlin, where the entire population is colored, and a deputy sheriff told us the other day that he did not think there had been more than two or three occasions for the sheriff to go or send to that locality to serve a paper, nor does Oberlin boast of the residence of a constable or deputy sheriff. 'Tis strange but true, crime and misdemeanor seem to increase where the readiest opportunities exist to put a stop to them.

THE STATE CANVASS.

Judge BUXTON's friends not being authorized to make further appointments for joint discussion, the Democratic Committee announce the following appointments for Governor JARVIS. Judge BUXTON has been invited and is expected to attend and participate in the discussions:

At Henderson, Saturday, August 28th.
Ashboro, Randolph county, August 31.

COL. KENAN'S APPOINTMENTS.

Attorney-General KENAN will address the people at Graham, Alamance county, Tuesday, August 24th.

Upchurch's, Franklin county, Saturday, August 28th.

Archer Lodge, Johnston county, Monday, August 30th.

Fairport, Granville coonty, Tuesday, August 31st.

CONGRESSIONAL CANVASS.

General W. R. COX and M. A. BLEDSOE, Esq., candidates for Congress in this District, will address the people at the following times and places:

Durham, Tuesday, September 7th.
Flat River, Wednesday, September 8th.
Cedar Grove, Thursday, September 9th.
Cates, Friday, September 10th.
Chapel Hill, Saturday, September 11th.
Orange papers copy.

AMONG THE MAGISTRATES.—Yesterday was a gala day among the Justices of the Peace. In our search for items we found three of our Magistrates holding court in three adjoining rooms.

Squire W. D. Haywood was engaged in a false pretence case where the defendant got away with a pair of gaiter tops. Adjudged guilty, and bound over to January Term of the Superior Court in a bond of $100.

Justice E. M. Bledsoe led off with The State vs. Ben Pope and Jennie Pope, on a charge of f. and a.; pending trial a material witness was absent. Case continued till this morning.

The next case called was State and Penny Summerville vs. Jennie Foster, Eliza Selden and Carrie Selden, peace warrant. Conclusive evidence for complainants; no defence. Defendants held under $50 bond to keep the peace.

A case of assault and battery, (same plaintiffs and defendants) called and continued till 10 o'clock a. m., to-day.

Judge M. B. Barbee opened with The State vs. Joseph Blake and Patsey Blake, abduction. Case tried and defendants held under $50 bond for appearance at January Term of the Superior Court. In this case a writ of habeas corpus will follow.

State and Mary Sanders vs. Albert Hudson, (all colored) two warrants, for bastardy. Cases called and defendant gave two bonds of $100 each for his appearance on Friday next, at which time a hearing will be had. During the interim Judge Barbee will devote his time to hearing lectures on medico-legal jurisprudence.

RALEIGH CEMETERY ASSOCIATION.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Raleigh Cemetery Association was held yesterday and much business transacted with a view toward improving Oakwood Cemetery. There has been too great negligence on the part of lot owners to pay up their purchase money, also to keep their lots in a good condition. This is a matter that should touch the pride of every man who owns a lot in the cemetery. The purchase money for sale of lots is the only income the Association has to beautify and keep in good condition the grounds, and every owner of a lot should see that he does not owe anything on that account, then attend immediately to putting his lot in a good condition.

The new officers elected yesterday are: P. A. Wiley, President; Charles Dewey, Vice President; Andrew Syme, Secretary-Treasurer; T. H. Briggs, W. E. Anderson, John Gatling, R. H. Battle, Jr., A. B. Andrews, W. C. Stronach, J. M. Heck and P. F. Pescud, Directors; A. B. Forrest, Superintendent.

We would suggest that every owner of a lot devote one day himself or put a good man there to represent him, and have every lot cleaned up and put in a neat appearance.

SUPREME COURT.—Court opened yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. All the Justices were present.

The consideration of appeals at the end of the docket was resumed, and causes were disposed of as follows:

Hull, Lanier & Co. vs. M. E. Carter, from Buncombe; argued by J. H. Merrimon (by brief) and A. S. Merrimon for the plaintiffs, and Reade, Busbee & Busbee for the defendant.

Pending the argument in this case the court adjourned until 10 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning, when the argument will be resumed.

The following cases on the docket remain to be heard at this term:

434. W. E. Weaver vs. J. R. Roberts.
435. C. H. Brogden vs. Jas. L. Henry.
437. J. W. Cooper, ex parte.
438. D. Stradley vs. H. W. King et als.

TOWNSHIP MEETING.—On Saturday, September 4th, the Democratic voters of Raleigh township will meet at Metropolitan Hall, for the purpose of organizing under the new rules of the State Central Executive Committee, and to select delegates to the County Nominating Convention. It is necessary that we begin early to canvass our ranks for good men for our county ticket, and to do this successfully we must put forward our truest and best material as delegates to the County Convention. Let every Democrat bear in mind that it is his duty to attend the township meeting and assist in selecting the delegates, and then stand by and vote for the nominee, be he whom he may. If the Democrats of Wake county will vote for their party nominees, they can elect the whole county ticket.

WHY NOT REVIVE IT.—We yesterday saw an order written in 1863 from the Augusta Advocate to Fraps & Thiem of this city for a large amount of glue. Messrs. Fraps and Thiem at that time were extensively manufacturing glue in this city. Squire Barbee was Superintendent of their factory. All the interested parties are still here and why can not the manufacturing of that article be made a success. We have no cotton factories, but one tobacco factory, let the manufacture of glue be revived. The order from Augusta says that Raleigh glue was the best ever used.

What North Carolinians are Doing.

GLEANINGS FROM STATE EXCHANGES.

The Star notes the death, on Monday morning, of Mr. George Myers, one of Wilmington's most prominent business men; and the suicide, by laudanum, of Mr. William McLauchlin, a native of Robeson, but for some time a citizen of Wilmington; and the killing of George Williams, colored, while sleeping on the track of the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad.

Last Saturday, as Mrs. Sarah Marble was about to leave Lenoir, N. C., on a visit, and her friends and relatives were gathered around to bid her farewell, her sister-in-law, a very large woman, throwing her arms around her, embraced her, but with such force that she broke one of her ribs.

Upon a requisition from the Governor of North Carolina to the Governor of Virginia, George M. Lindsey alias G. L. Medicus, charged with embezzlement, was on Monday delivered up to an officer of North Carolina.

THE COLORED FAIR.—The Colored Industrial Association's Second Annual Fair, which begins on the 27th of September, bids fair to be a grand success. Donations are coming in most liberally from abroad, and our people at home have lent a helping hand in no small measure. Our colored citizens are doing all in their power to aid and assist the officers of the Association in their efforts to make the coming Fair a grand event in the history of the colored race in North Carolina.

Two Tireless Workers.

A celebrated scientific man is endeavoring to enlighten the public concerning the habits of insects. The only insect in which the Americans are interested during the summer solstice is the friendly mosquito, and concerning its habits very little that is new can be told. Experience is a surer guide than the theories of science, and very few of us have been without a degree of personal knowledge of this little musician and diligent worker to which science can add very little. It is the most devoted attendant upon our sleeping hours, and in its strict attention to the business of guardian spirit is unsurpassed. What is more delightful when, after a couple of hours of restless tossing, you are just falling into the tranquil arms of quiet sleep, than to hear that shrill soprano of a buzz which proves that though other friends may desert you the mosquito will remain trusty and true. You may be quite unappreciative and declare that you don't want your friends about you all night, that it is disagreeable to be serenaded out of your sleep, still the loyal mosquito disregards your wish that he would seek other objects on which to bestow his affections, and even your low, deep curses at his unremitting fidelity, and utterly refuses to leave you to the barrenness of your own thoughts. The Europeans are doubly beset in this respect, for they have not only the musical mosquito, but in addition the noiseless and efficient flea. The latter insect is the most industrious creature on the earth, and puts even the busy bee to shame. Morning, noon and night he plies his trade, and so determined is he to do his work faithfully and well that, if you attempt to interfere with his operations, he is cunning enough to elude your search, and with a single leap to change his base. We have seen a man in a very unscriptural state of mind, and bent on interrupting the normal activity of this insect, smite himself, throw his arms wildly about in the intensest excitement, and vow the direst vengeance if his search should prove successful, and yet the busy insect simply attended to its own affairs, leaving here and there a little red spot to show that he had not for a single moment been neglectful of his duty. These insects are also very hospitable to strangers, and give a warm welcome to republican Americans when they visit foreign shores. On the whole the mosquito and the flea may be said to be the only insects which unremittingly attend to their business, and never take a vacation; but those who have traveled through Italy, for instance, do not require the services of a scientific man to instruct them concerning the habits of either of these little friends of the human race.

Woman's Faith and Woman's Trust.

It is all very well to laugh at what we are pleased to call woman's inconstancy; but in our truthful moments, which are none too frequent, we are willing to admit that she is far more constant than we are ourselves. The proverbs of all languages are opposed to this statement, but proverbs are not necessarily truths. The flippant Frenchman, who takes an amount of license himself but allows his wife none at all, laughs heartily as he sings—

Souvent femme varie;
Bien fou que s'y fie,

which, being literally translated, may run thus—

A woman changes oft;
Who trusts her is right soft.

And the Spaniards have a like saying, that "Women, wind and fortune soon change." Here is an incident, however, which illustrates the other side of the subject. Francis I., of France, wrote one day with a diamond on a window of the chateau of Chambord the two lines quoted above. His sister, Queen Margaret of Navarre, protested against the sentiment as a slander, and declared that she could quote twenty instances of man's fickleness, and then added, "And can you quote as many instances of woman's inconstancy?" It so happened that a few weeks before this a gentleman of the court had been thrown into prison upon a serious charge, and his wife was reported to have eloped with the page. Francis triumphantly cited this case, but Margaret warmly defended the lady and declared that time would prove her innocence. Not many days had elapsed before it was proved that it was not the lady who had eloped, but the husband. During one of her visits to him in prison they had exchanged clothes, and he was thus enabled to deceive the jailor and make good his escape, while his devoted wife remained in his place. According to promise Francis destroyed the pane of glass, but the couplet was remembered, though the incident which proved it false has long been forgotten.

The Scotchman never fails to put a thing tersely. He says of matrimony:—"If marriages be made in heaven, it is evident that some people had few friends there."

This Morning's Telegrams.

THE WILMINGTON MEETING!

Grand Assemblage of Democracy!

FIVE THOUSAND VISITORS IN THE CITY!

[Special Telegram to THE RALEIGH NEWS.]

The Ratification Mass Meeting here is a great success. The crowd is great and the enthusiasm immense.

GOVERNOR JARVIS

spoke for more than an hour, and was enthusiastically applauded throughout.

Gen. LEACH and Major D. H. MCLEAN each spoke at length and delighted the assemblage.

Senators VANCE and RANSOM were compelled to speak briefly. They will address the people to-morrow.

THE PROCESSION

was an immense one. It is estimated that there are at least in the city. Many colored people listened to the speakers with perceptible gratification.

FIVE THOUSAND VISITORS

Fourth Judicial District.

COLONEL BENNETT THE NOMINEE.

[Special dispatch to THE RALEIGH NEWS.]

LUMBERTON, August 24, 1880.

The Democratic Convention to nominate a Superior Court Judge for this District, in place of Buxton, resigned, met here to-day.

On the twenty-sixth ballot Colonel R. T. Bennett, of Anson county, was unanimously nominated.

The Unsettled Europeans.

LONDON, August 24.—A dispatch to the Times from Vienna says: The New Free Press publishes a letter from Philippopolis, giving a project of an offensive and defensive alliance which the representatives of the Pan-Bulgarian party of action are about to form with agitators in the Servian Parliament and the programme of which is about to be submitted to the Princes of Servia and Bulgaria. The document contains the expression of the political views of the Southern Slav agitators, of whom the Servian and Bulgarian ministers, MM. Ristus and Rob, are said to be the secret protectors.

A dispatch from Pesth to the Daily News says that at a meeting of the Southern Albanian Chiefs held recently at Argoyrocastro, it was resolved to resist the cession of Epirus and Thessaly and to complete forthwith the defences of Arta-Prevesa, Metoegovo, Lorissa and Janina, The chief declared their ability to cencentrate forty thousand men on the frontier.

A dispatch from Scutar to the Manchester Guardian says the arrival of Riza Pasha with six fresh batallions makes Turkey absolute master of the situation. Dulcina could be peaceably surrendered at once but unfortunately the Porte continues intriguing. Riza Pasha is living at the house of a member of the Albanian Committee. The Turkish officers openly declare that they are not come to restrain the Albanians. The League has consequently taken a new resolution to resist the settlement.

A dispatch to the Times from Constantinople says: "Hafiz Pasha, the dismissed Minister of Police, is now being tried by a Court Martial for his arbitrary arrest of a young girl for wearing too thin a veil, and also for his peculations.

A Paris dispatch to the Daily Telegraph states that a Republican journal, the Courier Du Soir says a violent altercation occurred between M. Tissot, the French Representative at Constantinople, and Mr. Goschen, the British Representative, after the last ambassadorial consultation, at the residence of Count Hatzfel the German Ambassador. It is feared the estranged relations between Messrs. Tissot and Goschen may prejudice the collective action of the Powers.

A dispatch from Berlin to the Post says that the Powers, while maintaining their intention to make no real demonstration if the Porte refuses to satisfy the claims of Montenegro, they have nevertheless decided upon informally granting a short respite.

CONSTANTINOPLE, August 24.—Mr. Goschen, the British ambassador, has communicated to the Porte a telegram from the British consul at Scutari, announcing that the Albanians are preparing to resist the surrender of the territory to Montegro. The diplomatic body at Constantinople are convinced of the sincerity of the Porte in offering to cede Dulcina, but doubt its ability to do so.

The Knights of Pythias.

ST. LOUIS, August 24.—After the Supreme Lodge had reached Odd Fellows' Hall and had been formally received by the Grand Lodge of the State, the Grand Chancellor of the State, W. P. Rudolph, delivered a brief speech of welcome to the city and the proffer of its hospitalities, to which Supreme Chancellor D. B. Woodruff made a response. The Supreme Lodge then went into regular session and Supreme Chancellor Woodruff read a very long and elaborate address, touching upon many points of interest to the order and making recommendations, the chief of which perhaps was the thorough revision of the endowment feature.

The report of the Keeper of the Records and Seal was also read. This shows a decrease in membership in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Georgia, Nevada and Ontario of 2,699 members, while the other twenty-seven jurisdictions show an aggregate gain of 4,652 members, making a net gain for the year 1879 of 2,943. Notwithstanding the decrease of members in some jurisdictions all of them show a decided financial improvement and the capital of Lodges is greatly increased. The amount paid for relief during the past two fiscal years is $477,781. This has been done by an average of 8,560 members, divided among 1,400 Lodges. The receipts for the two fiscal years ending July 31, 1880, have been $41,265, and there is now a balance in the treasury of $12,357. The amount contributed to the yellow fever sufferers in 1879 was $8,833. The number of members in the Order December 31, 1879, was 87,715. The number of uniformed members is about 2,150, embraced in fifty-four divisions.

After the presentation of reports and the transaction of some unimportant business, the Lodge adjourned until morning. Preparations were then made for the grand parade, and by 2 p. m. the streets were thronged with spectators. The start was not made, however, until half-past four. The procession was composed of a squad of mounted police, eight companies of the First National Guards, St. Louis Light Guard, Cavalry, eight companies of the First Regiment of Police Reserves, mounted Knights in ancient Roman armor, and a large number of divisions of Knights from all parts of the country, including divisions from Norfolk, Va., Shreveport, La., and Fort Worth, Texas. The procession ended with a section of artillery and a long line of carriages in which were prominent officers of the Order and the municipal authorities. The display was very brilliant and the parade was heartily cheered all along the route.

The Isthmus Canal.

PANAMA, August 24.—The Government of Costa Rica has formally protested against the validity of the contract for the construction of the inter-oceanic canal, which was concluded in Managua by the Government of Nicaragua on the 25th of last May. It will not consent to such a document, not because the material interests of the country would suffer by the completion of the work, but because the signing of such a contract without the previous consent of Costa Rica is an offence against the honor and dignity of the nation. The Nicaraguan Government responds with a denial of Costa Rica's claims and requests that power to reconsider its protest. Costa Rica claims a common right with Nicaragua to a free use of the San Juan river and harbor.

Manchester Cotton Market.

LONDON, August 24.—The Manchester Guardian, in its commercial column, says the continued strength and activity of the cotton market has compelled sellers to raise the quotations in many instances, even where there is little hope of an advance being realized. To this extent the market may be called firm and hardening. Buyers, however, do not meet the upward movement, as they do not believe it will be sustained. Their abandant supplies, and the absence of any encouragement from consuming markets, prevent them from having any pressing wants of magnitude at the full rates now required.

A Suicide Turned Up.

DETROIT, MICH., August 24.—The much-sought Dr. Buchanan, of bogus medical diploma notoriety, whose disappearance from Philadelphia and supposed drowning from the ferry boat has already been telegraphed over the country, has been found at Windsor, Ont., opposite this city.

Congressional Nominations.

MILWAUKEE, August 24.—The Republicans of the Third District of Wisconsin have nominated George C. Hazelton for Congress.

DETROIT, MICH., August 24.—George W. Weber, of Iowa, was nominated for Congress to-day by the Republicans of the Fifth District.

A Queer Political Dodge.

PITTSTON, August 24.—A convention of the Democratic conferees of the Twelfth District, held here to-day, resulted in the nomination of two candidates for Congress—Asa R. Brundage by Luzerne county, and W. Connolly, Greenback nominee, by Lackawanna county.

[The district is now represented by Hendrick B. Wright, Democratic Greenbacker.]

Items in the Morning Telegrams.

The sale of the Galveston, Brazos and Texas Railroad, advertised for yesterday at Philadelphia, was postponed to Nov. 30.

The American Science Association holds its annual meeting to-day at Boston. Large numbers of delegates arrived there yesterday.

The death of Washington McLean, editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer, is momentarily expected at Long Branch.

The Havana sugar market was very quiet yesterday.

The New York Stock Market yesterday was active and 184,000 shares changed hands, at an advance ranging from ¼ to 2⅜ per cent.

Some of the Worcestershire, (England) nail-makers have hit the nail on the head by refusing to strike, and Stafford and Worcester will keep on making nails and a living.

Five thousand pounds are already in hand at London to back the Australian, Trickett, in his boating match with Hanlan.

The corn harvest in Switzerland is the most abundant ever known.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS:—

Mrt. Emma Young, a granddaughter of Patrick Henry, an aged lady, is now sick at her home in New York, helpless and in very distressed circumstances.

The report comes from Georgia that Senator B. H. Hill is suffering from a cancerous tumor on his tongue that threatens to terminate his career as a public speaker, if not his life, as there are doubts of a permanent removal of the tumor.

A serious cave is in progress at the Planes, near Wilkesbarre, Pa., of the surface over the mines of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company. Several buildings have already been injured at the mine. Five houses are in imminent danger of destruction, and about three acres of ground have sunk from six inches to two feet. The people are much alarmed.

Secretary Sherman left Washington on Monday to enter upon his campaign work and will not return for some weeks. His speeches are already prepared and are said to be in print. The first one will explain the reasons why, in his opinion, the Democrats should not be entrusted with the management of national finances. Mr. Sherman has placed himself at the disposition of the National Committee.

Simon Zimmerman, a German employe of the Western Electrical Works in Chicago, murdered his wife and then shot himself yesterday. It is supposed that on getting up Zimmerman and his wife quarreled and that he shot her in sudden anger, and then in remorse at his act shot himself. The couple had only been married six years. They leave two children.

The demand which has been made upon General Sherman from all quarters for the production of his letters to General Hancock, written in December, 1876, during the Presidential crisis of that year, has at last had the desired effect, and the letters are to be given to the public in an authoritative way. General Sherman has sent the letters to the publishers of a forthcoming life of General Hancock, with the concurrence of the latter officer, and they will appear in this volume in connection with the letter written by General Hancock, already made public. General Sherman declined to furnish a copy of his letters to the press.

A workingman in Glasgow, whose wife is a confirmed and violent drunkard, has hit upon a novel device for pacifying her and protecting himself and his family. In the morning he passes a chain around her ankles as she lies in bed, and secures the chain with a padlock. He then goes forth to his daily work. On returning in the evening he releases his captive and allows her to remain at liberty until morning, when he chains her up again. The neighbors have seen fit to interfere and to have him arrested, but as his wife has acknowledged his persistent kindness to her in the face of her own glaring misconduct, the magistrate has dismissed him after admonishing him.

Partial returns from the recent census of the industrial products of Cincinnati indicate that the value of the manufactures of that city last year aggregated $200,000,000, which is a remarkable increase during the last decade. The production of clothing this year will probably aggregate $20,000,000, or nearly double that of 1870. The total returns of the whisky product thus far amounts to $13,425,000, while a product of $16,000,000 is expected in Cincinnati, against a total of $7,032,000 in 1870 for the whole State. The production of malt liquors in Cincinnati this year is expected to run up to about $6,000,000, against $5,753,000 in 1870 for the whole State. The production of candles, soap and starch this year is expected to aggregate $9,000,000, against $6,840,000 in 1870 for the whole State. The boot and shoe manufacturing business has almost doubled since the last census.

"Ah, that Alters the Case."

How easy it is to judge another man for a fault, and how exceedingly difficult it is to pass the same judgment on yourself for the same fault! Somehow you can't see why your neighbor should do anything wrong, neither can you see why you should not do so whenever you choose. We have a saying, "Ah, that alters the case," which is hundreds of years old, but which is just as applicable now as ever. It arose in this wise:—Edmund Plowden, an eminent lawyer in Queen Elizabeth's time, was asked by a neighbor what remedy there was in law against the owner of some hogs that had trespassed on the grounds of the complainant. Plowden stroked his legal brow for a few moments and then answered that under such circumstances large damages might be claimed. "I am glad to get so decided an opinion from so good an authority," replied the neighbor, "but I neglected to state that the hogs are your own." The lawyer was puzzled for a moment, but only for a moment, and then, with that modesty which always accompanies a profound knowledge of legal intricacies, replied, "Well, my friend, I am bound to say that that alters the case considerably."

Where She Seldom Was.

There are two sisters in Louisville famous for their wit, and there is also in that favored town, a gentleman, Colonel "Blank," who for nearly two generations has had the reputation of having courted every heiress in the neighborhood. One of the sisters referred to said to the other several weeks ago: "If a million dollars were left to you, what is the first thing you would do?"

"I should fall upon my knees and pray the Lord to keep me out of Col. 'Blank's' clutches."

This was repeated to the Colonel, who waited for revenge. The other day the witty young woman, leaning on the railing of the piazza at Crab Orchard, saw the Colonel in the yard below.

"Well, dear me, Colonel," she said, "I meet you everywhere I go. Can't I go anywhere without seeing you?"

"Yes, there is one place," calmly replied the Colonel.

"Where is it? let me go!"

"Well, go home."

WAIF:—

A literal-minded little fellow visiting on Cape Cod, who found the inscription in the village graveyard, "Not dead, but sleepeth," ran in alarm to his mother and said, "We must go home right off; I won't stay here all night, anyhow. They bury people here when they go to sleep. I saw one of them out in the graveyard, and do you suppose I'll sleep here to-night and have them bury me?"

"How does the Empress Eugenie dress?" inquired an inquisitive female of a bachelor friend just returned from Paris. "Like a woman," was the brusque reply. "Of course," continued the inquirer: "but I wish to know whether she wears costly dresses?" "I understand you, madame," was the ungallant response; "she dresses like a woman—wearing the most costly garments she can procure."

"Let that which is lost be for God" is an old saying, and one which betokens no very high appreciation of the nature of true religion. Still it represents the average religious sentiment of a certain class of people of our own time. A cow belonging to a Suabian had strayed away and was for a long time missing. When near unto death he was distributing his property, and whispered, "If that cow is found let the eldest son have her; if she is not found let her be an offering to God."

Amid the curiosities of literature we once in a while meet a statement which does justice to a good wife, but not often. We refer to the older literature, for in these last days many of the best books are from maidens' or matrons' pens, and public opinion on this subject has suffered a sad change. Here is a couplet from the olden time, a sort of involuntary tribute not only to the wife, but also to the wisdom of the other sex:—

As the good man saith, so say we;
But as the good woman saith, so it must be.

City Business Items.

Yeargan, Petty & Co., from now till 15TH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, will sell specialties and goods belonging to Spring and Summer stock, AT PRIME COST!

The daily increasing use of Olive Oil as an article of food, is attracting public attention more and more to the necessity of caution in buying, so as to get a pure and genuine article. The advertisement of Mr. E. J. Hardin in to-day's paper, advertising the famous "Francesconi" brand of Oil, imported direct in hermetically sealed cans, and bottled here by himself, is worth the attention of all who like salads and salad oil.

Special Announcement.

We have just received a new lot of those "Welcome" Dress Shirts that have given our patrons such satisfaction. They are double around the bosom, just where they first begin to wear, thus making them last twice as long. Also another lot of those popular 75 cents Dress Shirts.
R. B. ANDREWS & Co.,
Clothiers and Hatters.

We are now receiving our Fall supply of GENTLEMEN'S HAND-MADE CONGRESS GAITERS, single and double soles, box and round toes. Perfect fitting and most comfortable shoe sold in the city. They will have the same successful run as the celebrated "King of Shirts," and are guaranteed to give the same satisfaction.
W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

We are introducing for the gentlemen farmers and planters a high cut ENGLISH TIE-KIP BROGAN, WITH BOX TOES. The best shoe ever seen for the purpose. Something entirely new.
W. H. & R. S. TUCKER.

Important if True.

The rumor that Messrs. Stralton & Storm have contracted with the British Government to furnish the officers of the army in Afghanistan with the Capadura Cigar, lacks confirmation, but tends to show the wide reputation of this famous 5-cent cigar. Mr. E. J. Hardin is the sole agent for the Capadura for this market.

It can't be found—A better Cracker than the Lunch Milk Biscuit, 15c. per lb. and always fresh.
